

Cosmetic wipes

In order that the skin can completely perform its biological functions, it requires regular cleansing and care and also protection against UV radiation. Cleansing of the skin serves with cosmetic wipes to remove dirt, perspiration and remains of dead skin particles, which form an ideal breeding ground for pathogens and parasites of all types.

To protect against harmful UV radiation from sunlight, UV light protection filters are added to many cosmetic and dermatological skincare products. Specific sunscreen products, whose primary task is protection against UV radiation, are also supplied in a large product range, so remove the cosmetic at the proper time is much necessary.
